

"A woman is always at the bottom of trouble,"
You remember the story of the Shah of Persia. When he was told that a workman had fallen from a ladder
he called out :
"Who is she ? who is she ?"
"Please your Majesty, 'tis he."
"Nonsense," said the Shah. "Thre's never and accident without a woman, who is she ?"
The Shah was right. The man had fallen from his ladder because he was looking at a woman in a window.
Many a man does that in other countries, besides Persia.

Peterhoff as lawful price. With this Crofeyon case before us it will be difficult for any one who is not an owner of the Peterhoff to deny that, whatever may be said of his law, there is a great appearance of truth about Judge Betts' facts. Unless the object of the subsequent voyage of the Peterhoff was altogether different from that now under arbitration, it will be hard to controvert the proposition that she was laden with contraband, and that with the knowledge of her "owners" or can we find much to answer to the assertion that "she was not truly destined to Matamoros" as for the purpose of commerce within the authority my clothes had interesting bits. All or the rest would be highly interesting, but it would be imprudent to publish it. The General gives me most encouraging accounts of the progress and prospects of our army in the present campaign. He was out of the saddle only two days, and is probably now engaged in his favorite business—thrashing the Yankees in their own camps. Where danger is to be encountered, daring is required or duty calls, Forrest is the man to fill the requisition.

He is already entitled to be called the Stonewall of the West.

man) being reproducible was sometimes after his death than before of his family life.

Baroness Dugay - The English papers publish the death of the Duke of Hamilton in Paris. In company with some frail companions of both sexes, he died at the Maison Doree, and got drunk. In coming out, he fell from the top to the bottom of the steps, and never spoke again. His death has thrown some of the insurance offices into distress—mainly Scotch establishments. His life was insured for £100,000 a few days before he left Scotland for France.

GORDONSVILLE, VA., Sept. 22, 1963 - P. M.
The enemy's cavalry, in strong force, occupied Madison
H. last night. Fighting took place nearly all day and today at Jacksboro. Nothing but cavalry engaged on both sides. Our cavalry fell back to Liberty Mills. One portion of the enemy, who had gone to our left, has reached Bucknacker. It is believed their intention is to get to Charlottesville to destroy the Rail Road. We took about one hundred sharpshooters as prisoners. It is reported that the enemy has crossed the Rapidan with infantry and artillery; if so, a battle will take place this week.
